

Halliburton Awarded Contract to Provide Fluid Services to Total in Angola

August 11, 2009

HOUSTON--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Aug. 11, 2009-- Halliburton (NYSE:HAL) has been awarded a $140 million contract by Total to continue delivering fluid services in support of its deepwater drilling and completion activities offshore Angola. The contract calls for the provision of services on an average of three deepwater rigs for up to three years.

"We are very pleased to have been awarded this contract," said Jeff Miller, vice president of Baroid, a Halliburton product service line. "Halliburton has aligned its people and processes to deliver engineered fluid solutions customized to maximize wellbore value to our customers, and we look forward to executing and adding value to Total's operations."

About Halliburton

Founded in 1919, Halliburton is one of the world's largest providers of products and services to the energy industry. With more than 50,000 employees in approximately 70 countries, the company serves the upstream oil and gas industry throughout the life cycle of the reservoir – from locating hydrocarbons and managing geological data, to drilling and formation evaluation, well construction and completion, and optimizing production through the life of the field. Visit the company's Web site at www.halliburton.com.

Source: Halliburton

Halliburton
Public Relations
Brad Baethe, +1-281-575-3197
brad.baethe@halliburton.com