Halliburton Company (File No.: 1-03492)

Subject Company: Boots & Coots, Inc. (File No: 1-13817)

TO: All Halliburton employees

FROM: Marc Edwards, senior vice president, Completion and Production Division

SUBJECT: Intent to acquire Boots & Coots, Creation of New PSL in the Completion and Production Division

As we publicly announced today, Halliburton has entered into a definitive merger agreement to acquire Boots & Coots and combine it with our current assets to create the premier well intervention and pressure control service provider. The stock and cash transaction is subject to approval by Boots & Coots' stockholders, regulatory approvals and other closing conditions. We expect to close the transaction during the summer.

Upon closing, Halliburton will merge the assets of Boots & Coots with the Production Enhancement product service line's Well Intervention (Coiled Tubing and Hydraulic Workover) and Pipeline and Process Services sub-PSLs, into an entirely new PSL called Boots & Coots. Jerry Winchester, Boots & Coots' president and CEO, will become the PSL vice president. The Boots & Coots PSL will be the fourth PSL in the Completion and Production Division, and Jerry will report to me. In addition, nearly 700 Boots & Coots employees will be welcomed to the Halliburton family.

Our strategy is to be the recognized leader in well intervention, pressure control, and pipeline and process services; Boots & Coots' expertise will complement our already strong offering in this segment. We believe that these services will be a growing market as our customers address their production challenges in both mature and emerging oil and gas basins globally, and establish the pipeline infrastructure to take product to market.

Boots & Coots provides integrated well intervention and pressure control services globally. It also has a small rental division that offers equipment, such as high-pressure flow iron, valves, manifolds and chokes. With headquarters in Houston, Boots & Coots also has major offices in Dubai, Algeria, Congo, Egypt, Libya, Venezuela and Houma, Louisiana

While we await regulatory approvals and Boots & Coots stockholder approvals, both companies' business will be conducted as usual, and the operations of Halliburton's and Boots & Coots' businesses should remain entirely separate. Please do not contact anyone from Boots & Coots regarding this acquisition until after the close of the transaction. During this time, any calls from analysts or investors should be referred to the Investor Relations department, and any questions from the media should be referred to Public Relations.

An Integration Team has been established with representation from both companies to facilitate the transition, and we will update you accordingly.
